

NOTE "LEAK" TELEGRAM MISSING, SAYS MALTBIE

Chairman Whipple Believes Brokers Had Advance Information.

(By the International News Service.) New York, Feb. 2.—A sensation was produced today at the Congressional investigation of an alleged leak to Wall Street of advance information on President Wilson's peace note, when Special Counsel Whipple, by accident, ran across a new lead pointing to a missing telegram that hitherto had not been mentioned.

Counsel Whipple's discovery resulted from "rigid quizzing" of Morris W. Maltbie, wire superintendent for Hutton & Co., New York brokers, in an effort to locate the missing telegram alleged to have been received by Hutton & Co. from their Washington correspondent, Connolly & Co., giving an accurate forecast of the peace note.

Maltbie said he did not know whether he had seen the Connolly message at all. "Did you see any message on December 20?" asked Whipple sharply. "None except a message from Mr. Clement of Chicago, to Mr. Ellis, a partner in the Hutton firm," answered Maltbie.

Maltbie is nervous. "Is this the message you saw," asked Whipple, showing the witness the Connolly telegram hinting at a forthcoming peace note, which had been in evidence for two days.

"No," replied Maltbie nervously. In response to Whipple's demand that he tell what message he did see from Clement on December 20, Maltbie quoted from memory a dispatch from Clement to Ellis: "I have sent out an earlier message and I expect your sending out this confidential message as a stock flash."

When asked to tell where the message Maltbie said: "I don't know what has become of it." Before boarding a train for Washington this afternoon, where the leak inquiry will be continued tomorrow, Whipple stated the committee considers the fact established that Hutton & Co. had in their offices, hours before the peace note was given out, an accurate forecast of the document. He said the forecast evidently was written by someone who had a copy of the note before him.

No-Dogs-Allowed Sign Hung on Seal Islands

"No dogs allowed." This is the sign that has been tacked up on the Pribilof Islands, Alaska, by Secretary of Commerce Redfield.

Not another dog can be landed on the islands, and those already there must be removed before July 1. The order is to prevent the molestation of fur seal and fox herds, for which the islands are famous. Dogs in the past have killed thousands of these animals.

"INK IS CHEAPER THAN BLOOD," SAYS HEARST

Advises President to Ignore "Blusters Like Roosevelt."

(By the International News Service.) New York, Feb. 2.—The New York World today printed the following statement from William R. Hearst, obtained by telegraph from Altoona, Pa.:

"I should think that the President can be trusted to maintain his policy of caution, conservatism, wisdom and high patriotism, especially as the policy has been overwhelmingly endorsed by the people at the polls.

"I think that any thoughtless, heedless, reckless demagogue can project a nation into war, but only a supremely capable, conscientious and essentially courageous statesman can keep a nation out of war in these troublous times.

"I think that the President fully realizes that advice from blusters like Roosevelt is not either serious or sincere, and, furthermore, that the kind of man who plunged the country into the worst financial panic of a generation is just the kind of man who would advise plunging the country into the cataclysm of world war.

"I think it is the solemn duty of all loyal American citizens to stand solidly back of the President in his efforts to maintain peace, and if those efforts fail, then in his efforts to prosecute a victorious war. I think that the President's deliberate discussion of international difficulties and differences through a succession of diplomatic notes has been the wisest and most statesmanlike policy of his career.

"Notes are better than bullets; ink is cheaper than blood, and if there had been more writing in Europe there would have been less fighting. Finally, I firmly believe that the President will bring our beloved country through this crisis, as he has brought it through other crises, with peace and honor."

(Signed) WILLIAM R. HEARST.

NORWEGIAN "ROLLERS" THRILL BROADWAY FOLK

Finally Roll Into Police Court, but Are Released by Judge.

Special to The Washington Herald.

New York, Feb. 2.—Rolling is the national sport of Norway. While not as spectacular as baseball or football, it is fraught with dangers and many thrills. Rolf Melanor and Christopher Olsen, fresh from Norway, gave a demonstration of the pastime today at the Recreation Pier, foot of Broadway. They were making about fifteen miles an hour along the ledge of the pier when seen by Policeman McGrath, of the Eastern district. Olsen was in the lead and was rolling at great speed. Melanor was several rolls behind and panting for breath.

Banked along the pier were spectators who were laying wages and lending encouragement to their favorites.

"Stop them nuts!" yelled Policeman McGrath as he made his way through the throng.

Just as he was about to lay hands on Olsen, the Norwegian changed his course and disappeared over the side of the pier. With a thud he fell into a small launch tied at the quay, but kept on rolling along the deck. In a wink McGrath had plunged into the boat and brought the contest to a close. By-standers stopped Melanor.

When arraigned an hour later before Justice Gerecht Olsen, who knew a few words of English said: "Oh, sweet judge! We were just practicing for the national games at home. A trifle of humor we had and that gave us the inspiration. Also Melanor had three teeth yanked out and he felt downhearted and I wanted to cheer him up a bit. We are shipping back today, be good, be kind, be lenient, dear judge."

The sailors were dismissed.

The Purity Paper Bottle "The Universal Container" FOR The Perfect, Sanitary Packaging and Handling of Foods

Perfect Sanitary Qualities.

PURITY PAPER BOTTLES are perfectly sanitary—made from new, clean, carefully paraffined paper. These bottles are made in a clean, sanitary factory, and the covers being immediately put on, they do not contain, as do paper oyster or ice-cream pails or buckets, accumulations of disease-breeding dust from the street and the usual vermin-infested places of storage.

A moment's thought will reveal to anyone the filthy, unhealthful, results of using for articles of food open paper baskets or pails which have, up to this time, been the only convenient and economical method of carrying liquids or semi-liquid foods.

Superiority Over All Other Food Containers.

In striking contrast with the ordinary paper food receptacles just referred to, THE PURITY PAPER BOTTLE, on account of its great merits, as above described, is eagerly accepted by dealers wherever exhibited, and acknowledged as superior and more convenient than anything of the kind ever before shown.

THE PURITY PAPER BOTTLE is an attractive package and delights the housewife receiving food-stuffs therein. Besides increasing the merchant's prestige, it is decidedly economical from the time-saving standpoint, requiring neither seal nor string with which to tie it.

Moreover THE PURITY PAPER BOTTLE will not leak, no matter in what position you hold or carry it, flag, or upside-down, in a market basket or in your coat pocket. It's built so it can't leak!

Old and New Methods of Packaging and Handling Foods Compared.

The public today largely demand packaged goods, but they also look askance and with distrust upon the clumsy and unsanitary methods employed by many grocers, fish and meat merchants, milk dealers, etc., who handle food supplies in a manner that frequently disgusts the discriminating customer.

It is unquestionably true that the ordinary method of packaging, handling and delivering supplies of raw or prepared foods to customers, is at some of its stages inadequate and often dangerous, besides being expensive.

The New Method.

In contrast with this, the OLD method of serving customers, note the recently developed NEW, adequate, simple, clean, perfectly sanitary and inexpensive method of packaging, handling and delivering food and other home supplies to customers, by the use of that Marvel of Perfection—THE PURITY PAPER BOTTLE.

Rockland Shoes

$2.95

Why Hirsh Always Undersells

HIRSH'S big shoe stores have a consistent policy of always underselling. We have no $2.50 price; no $3 price, no $4 or $5 price. We have a range of prices that is consistently lower, pair by pair, than as good shoes are offered for elsewhere.

The Reason?

There are several. First, our low rent location. This alone saves thousands of dollars a year for the benefit of our customers. Second, big volume of sales at small profits. We do a tremendous business and it is increasing season after season. We can afford to take smaller profits per pair and we DO. Third, our years of experience have taught us to be shrewd buyers. We know how, where and when to buy shoes. Right now we are stocked with thousands of pairs of shoes and new shipments are constantly being received—these are shoes bought months ago before the present high prices. You get the benefit.

It will pay you to come from any distance to Hirsh's.

Take these Rockland shoes, for instance—they are easily worth a dollar a pair more, in fact they now COST a dollar a pair more at the factory.
